Historical Unit Probably Has The 'Ticklicker'

Charles F. Hinds

Historians are reasonably sure that the famed "Ticklicker" is located in the Kentucky Historical Society Museum in Frankfort. "Ticklicker" was Daniel Boone's favorite rifle.

It was bought in 1900 from Colonel Gilbert Walden, a self-styled "Southern Elocutionist, Rough Rider, and Cow-boy Orator." According to Walden it was made for Daniel Boone by a North Carolinian gunsmith by the name of Graham, whose muzzle mark consisting of eight stars indicates that it was made sometime in the latter part of the 18th century.

"Ticklicker" was featured in the February 25, 1925, issue of The American Rifleman. According to the article, there is no contradiction between the period ascribed to the historical-society-owned rifle and the characteristics of the first of the Kentucky rifles. It lacks the pronounced crescent-shaped butt plate common among flintlocks of the following century. Furthermore, the absence of a patchbox in the stock marks it as a Southern rifle, perhaps, one made in North Carolina.

The Boone rifle was passed on to Gilbert Walden with the information that Graham made the rifle for Boone around 1760. This, then, was the rifle in all probability which Daniel Boone had with him when he first entered Kentucky in the Prestonsburg area in 1767 and which he continued to use until the year 1784 when he gave it to a mountain trapper by the name of Dedman.

It remained in the Dedman family for years, hidden away, almost forgotten in a closet, until it was discovered and publicized in a newspaper. Colonel Ellis of Louisville read the news articles, looked up the family, and purchased the rifle. Dr. Percy W. de Barnay of Tallulah Falls, Georgia, was the next owner, and it was from this last named gentleman, a gun collector, that it was purchased by Gilbert Walden.

What proof can be found in the Draper or other original manuscripts that this is indeed Boone's famed "Ticklicker"? Several references mention this rifle by name, but a complete description of it in manuscript awaits the diligent researcher.

Recreation Program Showed Need For Central Location

Public recreation facilities will probably be concentrated in one area next summer, Jim Caudill, director of the summer recreation program here, told Hazard Rotarians last week.

Caudill said Hazard's summer program, first initiated this year, demonstrated two major weaknesses:

1. "We scattered our programs too much and made the mistake of trying to go to the children." and

2. "We tried to set aside specific days for certain activities and found out that this doesn't work."

Caudill, evaluating the 1958 program, said that next summer will probably see the various activities concentrated at the Hazard Baptist Institute field.

There, he said, supervision can be provided throughout the day for any number of activities, including handicraft, archery, baseball and possibly softball.

Noting some of the achievements last summer, Caudill said the handicraft program was well received and drew large numbers of children. He said the Recreation Commission also started a minor baseball league for boys who were not old enough or couldn't make the Babe Ruth and Little League teams.

Caudill noted that much work remains to be done in the field of adult recreation and suggested that an adult softball league could become a possibility next summer.

He said that greater use of Memorial Gym in the summer is virtually an impossibility because of the "intense heat."

Commenting on the importance of recreation, Caudill said:

"We're going to have to provide something for our children's physical development." He noted that 75 percent of the injuries in Korea during the Korean conflict were listed as "leg fatigue the legs of our soldier just didn't hold out."

Caudill cited the absence of a "baseball park" as a major deficiency in the City's recreation program by noting that to his knowledge, Hazard was the only town in the U.S. of its size without a diamond.

He also listed a City swimming pool as a problem to be considered by the recreation commission in the future.

7 Year Old Grudge Leads To Slaying Of Salesman At Cornettsville, Sunday

A 23-year old Cornettsville used car salesman was slain here late Sunday afternoon when he attempted to enter the home of another resident of the same community.

Dead on arrival at the Mt. Mary hospital at 5:30 p.m. yesterday was Bethel Smith, shot in the chest with a .12 gauge shotgun by Fred Bush, 45.

Bush is in the Perry County jail, charged with murder. His examining trial will be held "sometime after Smith's funeral," Sheriff Paul Amis said this morning.

Seven-Year Old Grudge
A seven-year old Grudge harbored by Smith against Bush and an argument between the two men, Saturday night, at a tavern at Toner, were cited by Sheriff Amis as possible motives for the shooting.

Bush told Sheriff Amis that Smith has claimed over the past seven years that he (Bush) testified for the defense in 1951 during a trial that resulted when Smith's brother, Carlos, was shot and killed at Cornett's Tavern, Leatherwood.

Bush told Amis today that while he was summons as a witness for the trial, he never testified at the hearing.

Saturday night, Bush told Amis, he and Smith got into another argument about the trial when the two ran into each other at the Toner tavern. According to Bush, Amis said, Smith threatened to kill him then.

Late Sunday afternoon, Smith, accompanied by Clyde Riddle and E. L. Bowling, both of Cornettsville, drove to Bush's home in Smith's car. Riddle told Amis following the slaying that the three had heard Bush had some moonshine for sale, and that they wanted to buy some.

Riddle went to the door of the Bush's home and when Mrs. Bush answered, Riddle told her to tell her husband that "Riddle wants to see him."

When Mrs. Bush went to get her husband, Riddle and Bowling returned to the car, where Smith was waiting.

According to Amis, Bush walked out the door of his frame house and when he got halfway to the car, he recognized Smith sitting in the car and then returned to the house to get his shotgun from the bedroom.

According to Amis, Bush said he picked up a 12 gauge shotgun from the bedroom and by mistake loaded it with a 16-gauge shell.

When he returned to the kitchen, he found Smith about to enter the kitchen door from the back porch. Bush fired one blast at Smith, hitting high in the chest from a distance of approximately 14 feet.

According to Smith's wife, her husband, Riddle and Bowling, departed her home early Sunday morning. Amis said Riddle told him they had been drinking together Saturday night, but that he and Bowling were not with Smith during the argument with Bush.

Small Business Money

For Region

Frankfort, Ky. — Securing of investment capital for small businesses in Eastern Kentucky under the new federal Small Business Corporation Act will be explored at the December 1 meeting of the Eastern Kentucky Regional Planning Commission at Pikeville. The commission is an agency of the Kentucky Department of Economic Development. Eastern Kentucky bankers have been invited to attend the session, set for 1:00 p. m., C.S.T., at the Hatcher Hotel.

Opportunities for organizing a corporation under provisions of the new legislation will be discussed at the meeting by Tyrus R. Davis, Louisville investment counselor. Davis aided in drafting the Small Business Investment Corporation Act and is helping to draft regulations under which it will be administered. Corporations organized under the Act would provide capital for small businesses meeting certain requirements.

In announcing the meeting, Commission Chairman B. F. Reed said, "We feel that a source of financing for good small businesses in our area, especially those using local resources as well as labor, is one of the most urgent requirements for development of Eastern Kentucky." He added that it is hoped that the new legislation will provide "effective help in this direction."

The Chavies Grade School has just finished cleaning and putting gym cell on the floors. We have a lot more cleaning to do. We are planning a Christmas program; it will be given by the Primary grades.

We have had a lot of children absent because of chicken-pox, but most of them have returned. Fitch Baker has been off from work this week, due to a swollen leg.

Mr. and Mrs. Sam Fugate have moved to Indiana; we hope they will like it there. We will miss them from our community.

Simson Duff cannot be seen or found since bird season has opened up.

The Ladies Aid met at Mrs.

Elmer Eversole's Wednesday night to discuss a Christmas program; there were several present: Mrs. Ella Whitaker, Mrs. Iva Pearl Deaton, Mrs. Anna Mae Johnson, Mrs. Ida Deaton and Mrs. Eva Deaton. We had a nice time, but we missed a lot of faces.

If you're planning a drive soon, I suggest you drive over to the new road that is being built at Buckhorn. It is almost a sky-line drive. It really is a beautiful drive.

COUNTY AGENT'S NOTES

Produce Grapes For Home Use

Paul Keen, County Agricultural Extension Agent

John Caudill, Associate County Extension Agent

Grapes are well adapted to the home garden. They can be trained along fences or walls if land is scarce, and will bear fruit 3 or 4 years after planting. Be sure to use recommended varieties from a reliable nursery. Varieties recommended in Kentucky are: red varieties—Agawam, Brighton, Caco, and Delaware; white varieties—Golden Muscot, Niagara, and Portland. Black varieties—Concord, Fredonia, Moore Early, Sheridan, and Worden.

Concord is a standard variety in Kentucky. It will succeed practically everywhere, and no other variety is so likely to continue in productivity, vigorous health, and hardiness as will this variety.

Any good, well drained, productive soil will be good for the vineyard. In setting make the hole big enough, not crowd the roots, usually about 18 inches across and 10 inches deep. Put some loose soil back in the hole, then set plant about the same depth it grew in the nursery, spread out the roots, cover with soil and pack firmly. Fill the hole to the ground level.

Vines may be planted either in spring or fall. If planted in fall, cover the tops with soil after setting, and then remove in the spring before the buds swell. Be sure that spring planting is done while plants are still dormant.

Vines should be set 10 feet apart in rows 8 to 9 feet apart. Remove all canes except the strongest one, and cut that one back to 2 or 3 buds. Any pruning should be done in early spring, but when the vines are not frozen.

Cultivation

Vines are benefited by regular shallow cultivation, especially in the early part of the growing season. If cultivation is not practicable a mulch of grass clipping may be used. It is a good practice to seed a cover crop in August to prevent winter washing and add humus when turned under in the spring.

Fertilization

Fertility level of the vineyard can be maintained by an annual application of barnyard manure. If barnyard manure is not available, the use of nitrate of soda or sulfate of ammonia is suggested, at the rate of 1/2 pound scattered thinly around each vine, in early spring.

Information on controlling insects and diseases may be had by phoning or stopping by the County Agent's Office in Hazard.

A Better Method Needed To Select Conference Team

It must have been an asinine situation at Pikeville

First the Eastern Kentucky Mountain Conference football coach voted an "all-conference" squad of 44 players and then finding themselves in this embarrassing situation, jockeyed around until they had pared this down to an offensive squad and a defensive squad of eleven men each.

And all this, quite obviously, because the coaches didn't know what to do about Hazard's Ken Cobb and Britt Handy. The coaches couldn't leave Astor Sizemore, the State's top scorer for 1958, off the starting squad. But neither did they want to concede a second or third spot in the starting backfield to Hazard, the conference champion for 1958—we would remind the coaches.

The Easy Way Out

The easy way out? Pick two teams and put Cobb and Handy on the starting defensive squad. We know the versatile Hazard quarterback must have been quite elated with this honor—particularly since he's only played 20 minutes of defense this year. And we can't help but wonder if the coaches, excluding Hazard's Jim Caudill, thought to consider Ken's accomplishments. As an offensive quarterback he had few peers in Kentucky this past season, and as the best college prospect turned out by the conference in 1958, he had no one in the E.K.M.C. anywhere near him in talent.

And of course, Handy was a "natural" for the defensive team. He had only averaged 12.1 yards per run on 67 carries this season and scored 78 points on 13 touchdowns on offense. So it only stands to reason that he belongs on the defensive team. No doubt when he matriculates to Indiana or whichever Big Ten school he decides upon, the coach there will completely overlook his offensive record and put him on the defensive team—because that's where the E.K.M.C. coaches say he belongs.

Cobb and Handy — "all-conference" — Yes. All-Conference first team is what they are! "All-Conference" defense — hogwash!

HARK THE HERALD

"Rest And Recuperation" Not With 4-Year Old

Having licked the Asian flu or whatever it was that laid me out flat for a couple of days, I'm feeling considerably better.

Sickness doesn't come my direction too often, for which I'm very thankful, but when it does I'm a plague on mankind.

Monday, I was confined at home in bed—at least until the Board of Commissioners met.

For my son, Craig, a four-year-old, seeing daddy sacked out all day was a novel experience. And when he finally figured out that I was sick, the whole affair became one, great big wonderful game.

From beneath a trunk-full of toys, he uncovered his "doctor's kit", and from that one moment on I might as well have been running a cross-country race for all the rest and recuperation I was to get at home.

I didn't mind my son's first offering of sugar "pills," but the 21st was about all I could take, especially since "mommie makes me take my pills with a full glass of water." Ever try drinking 21 glasses of water within a couple of hours time?

Just when I'd start to fall off to sleep, up'd come Craig to blissfully comment:

"Time to take your medicine." And I'd have to choke down one of his red, pink, purple or yellow sugar pill and another more water.

When I finally did reach slumberland I awoke in agony to find a needle driven halfway into my shoulders:

"I'm giving you a shot like Dr. Boggs does."

Tommy Brush, of Jenkins — "all-conference tackle?" Brush was a backfield man! Pikeville deserves four men on the conference squad—Pikeville, an also-ran? Jim Crutchfield, of Hazard, honorable mention, and Bob Ooten, of Belfry, starting guard, "all-conference". If my memory doesn't fail me, Crutchfield had a field day at Ooten's expense in the Belfry game.

Putting Boss Tweed To Shame

Bitter? Yes, we're bitter! Because we know, and any coach will tell you, that this business of selecting an All-Conference Team has degenerated into a brand of politics that is causing the late Boss Tweed to turn somersaults in his grave.

And it's not fair to the players who have knocked themselves out for eight-nine-ten-or-eleven games to treat them like this.

We're critical because the coaches haven't done something about this situation. Why not, instead of petty politics to select the team, have the coaches vote two weeks in advance of the meeting for an all-conference team and forbid any coach from voting for his own players. Let a person sworn to secrecy tabulate the results and announce the team.

This is but one suggestion. Surely there are other ways of selecting an all-conference team that is an all-conference team — and not an effort to pacify the feelings of losing coaches who must bring home something to the student body and principal besides a losing season.

County Officers Thanked

First we want to thank our county officers for the good work they are doing at Rowdy, cleaning out ditch lines, making roads over the creek, so we can go fishing. I thought roads ought to be made to serve people when they paid their taxes, that's why your doorbell rings. Pay your taxes and we will get more good roads. People up these hollows, and school children, can't get out to school when winter sets in.

I know children that lose four months out of every school year, because they can't get to school. I can remember when my father paid taxes for fifty-five years and never had a good road. He was killed eleven years ago crawling around cliffs, trying to get out to the highway. Don't you think that the tax money should be used for poor peoples roads up the hollows? They couldn't ever get a car up those hollows.

Someone told me that the County Judge said he wasn't going to do any work at Rowdy. Didn't get many voters. We just had eleven Republicans to vote the other day and I'm going to try to get them to change their registration to a Democrat, before the May election, so we can try to give Bert Combs a lift for Governor, so maybe he can help us get some roads where they are needed.

Minutes later, I was rudely awakened again this time with the Purple People Eater blaring in my ears, and Craig and Becky, our other one, fighting on the floor arguing about who was going to squirt the kisse on the record player.

All this while, Betty's out teaching dance lessons.

Ironically, I'll never forget Dr. Boggs' comment when he saw me at the board meeting: "You shouldn't be out, Fred. You ought to be at home in bed getting some rest!"

Let's Make This A Trade-At-Home Christmas

On the eve of the Christmas shopping season, we are again prompted to remind our readers of the importance of their shopping at home, and trading with local merchants.

We know the temptation of catalog-buying is immense, and possibly you do have within your home, a catalogue which can save you a penny here or a penny there.

But before falling victim to the lavishly illustrated lures of a catalog, we know your local merchants would appreciate your taking a closer look at their wares.

You'll be pleasantly surprised at the variety of goods being offered this season. And the prices, in almost every instance, are in line with those being offered in catalogues—especially when you tack on the cost of freight and other miscellaneous charges which are all too often overlooked by catalog buyers.

They Help You! — Help Them!

Perry County merchants have gone to considerable expense these past few months to help any number of you make a success of your own "important" projects. Won't you return the favor by making this the biggest shopping season ever for them.

Too often overlooked by any number of us is the fact that while our county merchants cannot succeed without you and I, neither could we make a success of our "box lunch" dinners, pie suppers, football and basketball programs, P.T.A. raffles, and so forth, without their cooperation. Hardly a week passes that the local merchants are not "hit" for some special contribution by the schools or civic organizations. And we might add, that it is only on rare occasions that anyone is ever turned down.

A Trade-At-Home Christmas

The reasons for trading at home are endless. To list a few—taxes stay at home, money stays at home to build new churches, roads, streets, sewers, etc.—and prosperity is assured not only for a few merchants but for the entire community.

Every dollar which is spent away from here is a dollar gone forever from Perry County.

Make this Christmas—a buy-at-home Christmas. Keep your money in Perry County where it can continue working for you

Grassroots Opinion

BELLINGHAM, WASH., LABOR NEWS: "A tremendous testimonial to the vigor, honesty and democratic traditions of American trade unionists was presented to the nation at Atlantic City . . . at the first constitutional convention of the American Bakery and Confectionery Workers Union . . ."

"The ABC convention has proved resoundingly that given a free, democratic atmosphere, workers will trample down corruption and racketeering and eliminate the traces of it remaining in the trade union movement."

NOGALES, ARIZ., HERALD: ". . . Many Americans are under the impression that defense is the cause of big spending. But more than half of the record Federal budget is not for defense items at all . . ."

"Mob Spirit Invades Perry County", Was the Headline for Sensational Lynching

Gurney Norman

"Mob Spirit Invades Perry County," was the banner headline that screamed from the front page of the January 25, 1934 Hazard Herald.

A second headline said: "Rex Scott Is Hanged To Tree Near Sassafras At 8:30 O'clock Last Night."

Those words briefly summarize an incident that kept Perry County in an upheaval for several days after a mob of masked and armed men stormed the county jail on Main Street, over-powered the jailers and whisked away young Rex Scott, a 20 year old Negro, to lynch him near Sassafras.

Scott was being held in jail for slugging and injuring Alexander Johnson, a white employee of the Marlowe Coal Company at Defiance. In a fight on East Main Street near the Coca Cola Bottling Company, Johnson was knocked unconscious and taken to a Hazard hospital. He died two hours after his assailant had been hanged.

Well-Organized Mob

The Herald gave this description of the mob and its actions: "It was a well organized, well disciplined and fast moving crowd that lynched Scott. At about 7:30 o'clock four automobiles and two trucks, all loaded with men, masked and heavily armed, left the cars and went to the jail where they found the jailer, Troy Combs, seated in a room to the right of the main entrance.

"A member of the party told Combs, 'We are here for the fellow Scott and we mean business.' Mr. Combs attempted to get them to leave and suggested that they should allow the law to take its course. They then demanded the keys, saying if they did not get them members of Mr. Combs' family would suffer."

Jailer Over-Powered

Then according to the Herald, turn-key W. C. Knuckles came into the jail office. The men grabbed him, thrust a gun in his side and took away his keys. The mob released the prisoner Scott, forced him into a car and drove down Main Street. About 100 shots were fired by the mob in a general demonstration at the intersection of Main and High Streets, where the By-Pass route row also joins.

An hour after Scott was taken from the jail at 7:30 p.m., well after dark on that January day, his body was hanging from a tree, his neck unbroken, 22 bullet wounds in his body. The scene of the lynching was on the road behind the Cornett Hill Cemetery, about 15 miles from Hazard, south of Sassafras.

Prayer Interrupted

Rumors that circulated for days following the mob action held that as the rope was placed around Scott's neck, he was asked if he wanted to pray. He supposedly was allowed to utter a few brief words when the rope was tightened and he was pushed from an embankment near the tree. A brief, tumultuous period of shouting and shooting followed.

By the time city officer Tolbert Holiday reached the scene of the hanging, the mob had dispersed.

Robert S. Cornett, who still lives a few hundred yards from the scene, said he well remembers the infamous night. He said he heard the shooting, and that he and his son-in-law, D. S. Combs, a Hazard barber, got to the tree shortly after the mob left.

Tree Was Small

Mr. Cornett said the Black Gum tree was only about eight or ten inches in diameter. The tree stood for several years, a grim reminder of perhaps Perry County's most shameful night, before gradually being killed by souvenir hunters who cut pieces from it.

The next issue of the weekly Herald carried the full text of Circuit Judge Sam Ward's charge to an investigating grand jury. He said in part:

"You cannot call it anything else but murder. I don't care how much people stand around on the street and laugh about it and say that the only mistake that was made was not getting somebody else . . . I want an investigation. I want a real and genuine investigation. I don't want any side-stepping. I don't want any white-wash affair. This crime can be uncovered."

No One Convicted

But despite Judge Ward's determined attitude, no one was ever convicted for the lynching. Several persons were arrested and indicted by the grand jury, and one was brought to trial, but no substantial evidence was ever turned up to convict him. To this day no one is sure who led the lynch party, except the men in the mob, many of whom, no doubt, today walk the streets of Hazard and Perry County.

Scene of Lynching

About 50 yards around this curve, young Rex Scott was lynched by a mob of masked and armed men 24 years ago. The curve is located a few miles South of Sassafras on Ky. Highway 15.

Bulldog Quintet To Opens Season!

A Hazard quintet minus the services of two of the State's top scorers last season, and faced with the prospect of losing two experienced seniors at tournament time opens its season tomorrow night at Memorial Gymnasium playing Leslie County in the second half of a double header that features Leatherwood and Buckhorn in the opener.

As defend 14th Regional champs, Hazard this season will go to the post without Don Smith, All-State center, and Guard Bobby Baker, the top two scorers during the 1957-58 season. Both Baker and Smith, and guards Tommy Johnson and Carlos Gibson, the number six and seven men last year, graduated in June.

Further clouding the Bulldog prospects during the forthcoming campaign will be the fact that Hazard loses the services of Forward Ken Cobb just before the district tourney, and the talents of Forward Joe Baker immediately following the district.

* Greene lettered at Leslie County before transferring to Hazard.

Cohh, a three-letter man, and Baker, two-letters, become over-age at tourney time. Both were starters last season and will open for the Bulldogs tomorrow night in the forward posts.

Joining them in the starting line-up against Leslie will be Bennett Jent, a 6-7 senior at center. Starting guard positions will be filled from among four candidates: Leon Hollon, a 6-foot senior who has lettered twice; Wendall Combs, a 5-10 senior with one letter; and Darwin Turpin, a 5-11 sophomore.

In the wide-open race for the two guard positions, only Hollon can be considered to have an inside trace. A reserve the first half of last year, Hollon blossomed forth in the latter part of the 57-58 campaign into a steady performer and point-getter for the Bulldogs as the running mate for Baker.

High on the list of reserves certain to see considerable action are Walt Greene, 6-2 forward-center, Buddy Madden, 6-6 center, Colin "Cokie" Cox, 6-1 forward, and Decourcie Halibur-ton, 5-11 forward. Haliburton, a senior, Cox, a sophomore, and Green, a junir who transferred to Hazard from Leslie after lettering there, have the inside track to fill Cobb's and Baker's shoes when they depart next year.

With a 23 game schedule on tap, the charges of Coach Goebel Ritter get four games behind them before the Hazard

Invitation, DeDe. 10-13.

Teams of State-wide prominence outside the 14th Region the Bulldogs will meet this season include Maysville, picked by many as best in the State for this year, on Feb. 13 in an away game; Dixie Heights, Jan.
16, away; Newport Public, here on Jan. 23; Clark County, here on Jan. 30; and Covington Grant here on Feb. 21.

their 1958-59 basketball campaign, Friday night, dumping cross-county rival Buckhorn, 66-50.

With Guard Fred Combs hitting for 18 points and Forward John Layne striking for 17, Napier rolled to a 14-10 first quarter lead, was ahead 35-20 at half time and on top 47-33 at the close of the third stanza.

High point honors for the evening, however, were captured by Buckhorn's E. Baker with 26 points on 10 field goals and six charity shots.

A B-team game was won by Napier, 31-24.

Garden Club Cited For Litter Work

Mrs. Gene Parker this week credited the Hazard Junior Garden Club with an active role in keeping litter off the streets and away from school premises.

Mrs. Parker singled out Mrs. Roy Reed and Mrs. Frank Baker for their cooperation and the "sixth graders" for policing Memorial Gym.

Everyone to his own taste, of course, but we were reading about a fellow the other day who's so nuts about the desert that he's building a house and is planning to dump about 100 tons of sand on the front lawn to put himself in the right mood.

Outside of the kids tracking all of that junk into the living room, I suppose there's nothing wrong with the idea of double-crossing Nature like this. The only thing that worries me is the thought of where it might lead if EVERYONE tried to improve or Nature with the same sort of enthusiasm.

So what would we end up with? Well, for a couple of hundred bucks or so, you might put in an aluminum tree decorated with plastic leaves—no blights, no cats clawing the bark off and no leaves to rake.

Whether you could get used to the wind making the tree sound like clean-up day in a scrap metal yard is another question, of course.

Now, me, I'm afraid I'm strictly a wood man. I don't like all that good lumbermen pick them out on Sundays only, you know. Wood is one of the oldest building materials, but down at Home Lumber Company we've got all sorts of building materials—everything needed from basement to roof—and we've got services too—planning, estimates, contractors, financing—so no matter what you are planning to do, or what materials you need, you can find them all at Killed with bow and arrow recently by Glenn Reynolds, local sportsman, was this large white-tailed doe. Reynolds, an archery enthusiast, killed the doe at Buckhorn Big Game Reserve in the company of other hunters.

Local Hunter Bags Large Doe At Buckhorn With Bow 'n Arrow

Glenn Reynolds, Sterling Hardware Sports Department Manager killed a large white tail doe November 9th on Big Millseat in the Buckhorn Big Game Reservation. He was hunting with several members of the Mt. Bow Hunters Archery Club.

The deer was shot with a 50 Lb. Blackhawk Hornet Bow using 28" Blackhawk arrows fitted with MA-3 broadhead blades.

At 18 yards, the arrow entered the neck, severing the jugular vein and completely knocked the deer off its feet, a second arrow pierced the lungs and heart. This was the first deer killed with a bow and arrow on the reservation, although one has been reported killed on Quick Sand.

Glenn is President of the Mt. Bow Hunters Archery Club, a members and Director of Kentucky Archery Association and a member of the National Field Archery Association. He taught archery at Camp Earl Wallace for the Fish & Wildlife Dept.

The Mt. Bow Hunters Archery Club has 30 or more members, all of whom, hunt with archery equipment. They welcome new members in this ancient method of hunting.

FALSE TEETH That Loosen Need Not Embarrass

Many wearers of false teeth have suffered real embarrassment because their plate (troupe), is loose or wobbles at just the wrong time. Do not live in fear of this. Applying to you, just sprinkle 1-1/2 tsp. of the alkaline (non-salt) powder, on your plates. Hold false teeth more firmly, so they feel more comfortable. Does not hurt. Causes a nice odor (freshure breath). Get FASTEETH at any drug counter.

Changes Made In Old-Age Insurance Program Says Mrs. Knox

Changes that will affect almost every farm and city person have recently been made in the old-age and survivors insurance program Mrs. Alma D. Knox, District Manager of the Hazard Social Security Office said today.

She took this opportunity during Farm-City Week to say that these changes affect the American public as a whole. Working persons-employed and self-employed, farmers and city people—need to know about them, their families need to know about them.

The most important changes in the law were designed to strengthen the Federal social insurance system which offers some protection against loss of earned income due to the retirement, death, or total disability of the worker.

Most important, Mrs. Knox said, is the increase in benefit amounts because these increases affect practically all working people and their families. This applies to people now getting benefit payments in Perry County and to those who will get benefits in the future. Monthly benefit checks to workers who retired at age 65 or later will be increased automatically by at least $3.00. The maximum monthly payment a family may receive is increased from $200 to $254 a month. Families now receiving maximum monthly benefits under the law will receive increases from $3.00 to $54 depending upon the deceased worker's average monthly earnings.

Mrs. Knox pointed out the larger amount will show up the benefit checks that go in the mail early in February.

Beginning with 1959, earnings up to $4,800 will be creditable and taxable for social security purposes and social security taxes will be increased. A person who worked in a business or on a farm will have 2 1/2 per cent taken out of his pay instead of the present 2 1/4 per cent; his employer will contribute 2 1/2 per cent also. The self-employment social security tax will be increased 3/8 of 1 per cent and will become 3 3/8 per cent of net earnings up to $4,800 in the year.

Mrs. Knox said that many people who could not qualify for benefits before could do so now.

Social Security in the past has been a program for city people Mrs. Knox said. Since 1950 it has been extended to cover farm people and now affects them the same way it affects all other people.

The ever-growing interdependence of farm and city as a result of the machine age has created a need to bring about a better understanding of our farm economy by urban people and of town and city problems by rural people. "Our social insurance program is an important part of that economy. That interdependence was a factor in the extension of old-age, survivors, and disability insurance to farm people, and it is the reason why the Social Security Administration is wholeheartedly cooperating in the observance of National Farm-City Week," Mrs. Knox declared.
